Pays Tribute to Offset Printing

Back in September 1965 when The Star announced it was junking its letterpress printing plant and switching to the offset system—which was accomplished with a trial run Dec. 29, 1965, and made permanent Jan. 7, 1966,—not many of our readers knew what we were talking about.

And they had reason to be skeptical that first month of offset production because of the poor reproduction of our news pictures—which should show up best with the offset process. Our trouble was with in-plant photography, due to bad advice from trade photographers who knew nothing about newspaper production. After a month of experimentation "on our own" we solved the problem—and began receiving congratulations.

The problem was solved not by listening to "experts" but by observing other newspapers which had made the switch to offset with outstanding success. I carried an engraver's magnifying glass in a pocket for a month examining the dot formation in pictures in several offset newspapers and one night I discovered the secret from close study of Sam Hodges' Benton Courier, then a weekly paper, now a daily. We simply weren't giving enough exposure when re-photographing our pictures in the plant. We corrected this—and we were on our way.

Offset first occurred to us when in the Spring of 1959 we attempted to print on our old flatbed press the Golden West pictorial tabloid—a report on our newboys' journey to Yellowstone National Park in August 1958. The edition was more than 50 per cent pictures—and what we discovered was that a flatbed press couldn't bring up enough ink. Pictures require 10 times as much ink as type does.

I had to take our printing forms to Wallace Hurley's commercial printing plant at Camden, re-proof the pages, and get the Golden West edition out on Hurley's big rotary offset press.

I knew then that the flatbed press was obsolete, wrote a long technical letter to Goss Printing Press Co. at Chicago, and sent a copy to Editor & Publisher, trade paper of American and Canadian dailies.

Two things happened: Editor & Publisher featured the letter in a double-column "spread," and within six months the Goss company quit making flatbeds and began manufacturing rotary offset machines. However, when equipping our own plant I bought a Fairchild press, that firm being one of the pioneers in rotary offset and we were already using some of their other equipment—principally their electronic picture engraver known as the Scanagraver.

The Star was the fourth of Arkansas' 31 dailies to convert to offset printing. Now more than half of both dailies and weeklies in the state use this system.

Arkansas Gazette published a fine and technically correct story on the offset conversion this past Sunday, getting some of its information from Mrs. Louise Bowker, secretary-manager of the Arkansas Press Association, Little Rock.

Nixon to Appeal for Public Support After Reaction of Congress $2 Billion Asked to Create Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $2 billion bill designed to immediately create 200,000 new public service jobs was introduced in the Senate today.

The measure, similar in purpose to the $9.5 billion public service jobs and manpower training reorganization bill vetoed by President Nixon last December, could be one of the first major pieces of legislation passed by the 92nd Congress.

It will have strong bipartisan support, including Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and nearly all the potential candidates.

The Senate bill would authorize $1 billion for the current fiscal year, which runs to June 30, and $1 billion in the next. The program would be administered by the Labor Department.

Sponsors said those hired would do "vital, necessary work" in such fields as education, health, recreation, conservation, law enforcement, transportation and other services. They contended nearly every city in the nation is short of needed workers in these fields.

Shah of Iran Threatens Oil Firms

By PARVIS RAEIN
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN (AP) — The Shah of Iran has threatened Western oil companies with widespread nationalization in the next decade. Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi told a news conference Sunday that Iran might take over the refining of its oil when present contracts expire in 1979.

"The oil companies then will come only as buyers and customers and take our oil to its destination," he said. "We shall then invest in the countries in which the oil is sold. This would make us partners in a downstream operation right to the gas station. That is my hope and my goal."

The ruler of one of the biggest oil producers in the Middle East, the Shah said that unless the companies and producer nations reach a new price agreement by Feb. 3, the 10 members of the Organization for Petroleum Exporting Countries will join in counter measures that "might be anything, including a stoppage of oil."

But the Shah said the negotiations have not deteriorated into a crisis and won't so long as the companies do not try to "bluff us or put on such pressure that they think they can make us surrender."

OPEC Nations produce about 85 per cent of the world's oil outside the United States and the Soviet Union, principally for heavily industrialized Japan and Western Europe. In the event of a shutdown, Western Europe's reserves are thought to be enough for almost three months' demand, while Japan's are much less.

The OPEC nations are demanding from 16 international companies price increases of about 20 cents a barrel plus hikes in their tax cut from 50 per cent to 55 per cent. The companies have offered a five-year agreement with prices adjusted annually to compensate inflation, but they want a uniform agreement for all 10 nations.

The Iranian ruler said that is unacceptable but that his country and the other Persian Gulf states—Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Abu Dhabi and Qatar—would accept the extended agreement if its price index were based on international commodities markets.

If the companies insist on a global rather than a regional settlement, the Shah said, the OPEC would demand one similar to Venezuela's new law, which provides for a tax increase of up to 60 per cent. In addition to Venezuela and the Persian Gulf countries, the OPEC includes Libya, Algeria and Indonesia.

Cold Air Is Expected in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air is expected to move into the northern portion of Arkansas by Tuesday morning and push southward across the state by Tuesday evening.

Temperatures are expected to drop considerably by Tuesday night as the arctic air mass moves through the state.

Highs today were forecast in the 60s, possibly reaching 70 in the southern portion of the state. Highs Tuesday will dip into the 40s extreme north portion as the cold air moves into that area.

No precipitation is expected with the frontal passage because of a lack of available moisture in the upper atmosphere.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms moved out of the state Sunday afternoon, but dense fog began to form over the southern portion of the state as skies cleared and temperatures dropped. The fog spread into much of the remaining sections of the state during the night and hazardous driving warnings were issued.

Insurgents Claim Win in Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Army insurgents claimed today to have ousted President Milton Obote of Uganda after 12 hours of bloody fighting with a rival faction of the armed forces.

A broadcast over Radio Uganda at 4 p.m. local time—the first announcement broadcast since the fighting began in the early hours this morning—claimed that Obote had been deposed in his absence by the military.

The broadcast—made by an army officer—said power would be handed over "to the soldiers."

Obote, who had not yet returned from the Commonwealth summit conference in Singapore, was accused in the broadcast of ignoring army demands for better living conditions and showing favoritism in allocating top government jobs.

The broadcast said "the army takes over power today and warns all foreign countries to keep noses out of Uganda's internal affairs."

Radio reports said Maj. Gen. Idi Amin, commander of Uganda's armed forces, was heading the rebel faction. Amin came on the air today to ask for calm.

Obote, 45, became prime minister of Uganda in October 1962 when it gained its freedom after being a British protectorate for 68 years. He became president in February 1966, deposing Sir Edward Frederick Mutesa, the figurehead president who fled to England. Mutesa, who had formerly been monarch of Buganda, known as King Freddie, died in London in November 1969.

Uganda, a country of nine million people is linked with Kenya and Tanzania in an East African economic community. The army's total strength is less than 6,000 men.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have assisted in forming a Ugandan air force. Its equipment is reported to include 12 MIG jet fighters.

Cambodia's Capital Is Attacked

By ROBIN MANNOK
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops shelled Phnom Penh's airport again today and attacked other positions on the Cambodian capital's defense perimeter. Explosions reverberated throughout the night.

Enemy troops were reported taking up positions in villages north of the airport, but U.S. cargo planes continued to fly in arms and ammunition.

Guards at the airport fought a gun battle at the end of the runway during the night. The guards said they could not estimate the size of the enemy force, which retreated toward the north after the fight.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were reported taking up positions in villages north of the airfield. Cambodian troops started clearing operations in the area, villagers reported.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the Cambodian military spokesman, said enemy gunners slammed mortars and rockets into the military section of the airport through most of the night, and several mortars fell close to the civilian terminal. He said there was no damage.

It was the second attack on the airport in four days. On Friday, sappers moving under cover of a mortar and rocket barrage virtually wiped out Cambodia's tiny air force, killed 39 persons and wounded 170.

The airport was closed to commercial airliners, but giant U.S. Air Force C130 planes, each carrying up to 20 tons of cargo, were flying in arms, ammunition and other war materials.

Am Rong said fresh North Vietnamese and Viet Cong concentrations had been spotted northwest of Phnom Penh. Other military sources said enemy troops were gathering east and south of the city.

There also were reports of heavy fighting at Prek Aneak and Preah Prasap, two key positions on the east banks of the Mekong River about 10 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Arabs Have Arms, Men But No Unity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Libyan Premier Muammar Kadhafi says the Arab world has 1,000 planes, 5,000 tanks and a million men but lacks the unity needed to mobilize them against Israel.

He said the Arab forces "are scattered and I doubt very much that they can participate in a battle against Israel because of political differences."

What the Arab world needs, Kadhafi said, is a recognized political leader because "policy in some Arab countries is completely paralyzed." He termed Jordan's King Hussein weak and said the Palestinian guerrilla groups are badly splintered.

Kadhafi spoke Sunday at a rally in Zaria, Libya, commemorating the deaths of more than 20 students during riots in January 1964 against King Idris. Kadhafi came to power in the military coup that overthrew the king in September 1969.

Israel, meanwhile, renewed its pledge to seek peace in the Middle East through U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring's negotiations, but expressed dissatisfaction over Arab responses to the talks.

A communique issued by the Israeli Cabinet described as "polemical" the Arab proposals presented last week to Jarring. Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Cabinet that Egypt and Jordan were ignoring the essentials in Israel's peace proposals.

Israel's deputy premier, Yigal Allon, said in a newspaper article that a settlement with Egypt and Jordan might force new elections in Israel. He said disagreement in the coalition government over the extent to which Israel should withdraw from lands occupied in the 1967 war could result in dissolution of the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

Sources in Israel reported that 60 students, all Russian Jews, are being held in a Soviet jail on charges of bribing university officials. The informants, former Soviet subjects who now are Israeli citizens, said the students were arrested several months ago in Kishinev, the capital of Moldavia. They said four Russian officials who allegedly accepted money to admit the young Jews to a university also were arrested.

The informants said they thought those being held would be brought to trial soon. They said payoffs to education officials are a common practice in the Soviet Union because enrollment in the universities is limited and competition to get in is great.

The Soviet Union hinted that it might go to the United Nations with its complaints of "Zionist harassment" of Soviet representatives in New York. An article in the Communist party newspaper Pravda also renewed the Soviet charge that the U.S. government is involved in these "hooligan actions against foreign missions"

Greyhound, Armour Merger Before Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today to review the merger of Greyhound Corp. and Armour & Co., the nation's second largest meatpacker.

The court acted on an appeal by the Justice Department which claimed the Greyhound takeover violates terms of a 1920 Supreme Court decree that prohibited Armour from being in the grocery business.

The review will begin with a hearing, probably in April, with a final decision expected by the term's end in June.

Through subsidiaries and divisions Greyhound provides industrial catering services and operates restaurants, cafeterias and other eating facilities. Greyhound's food operations yielded revenues of about $124 million in 1969.

Greyhound replaced the General Host Corp. in May 1970 as intended controller of Armour. The Justice Department had opposed the General Host plan also as a violation of the 1920 decree since General Host operates some 380 grocery stores as well as restaurants, lodges and coffee shops.

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Stanley Nash, 22, of Pine Bluff was still at large early today after walking off a work detail at Cummins Prison Farm Sunday, officials said.

Guinea Plans to Execute 50 Invaders

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Guinea is going to execute 58 persons convicted of taking part in the invasion of the west African nation last November. Another 66 were sentenced to life in prison, including a Roman Catholic archbishop.

Guinean President Sekou Toure had charged the invasion was led by Portuguese mercenaries, but there was no indication that any Portuguese were among those sentenced.

The sentences were announced Sunday in Conakry during a rally in the Conakry football stadium. Radio Conakry broadcast the proceedings.

The sentences were given by the National Assembly, sitting as a "supreme revolutionary court."

The broadcast said Msgr. Raymond-Marie Tchidimbo, the Catholic archbishop of Conakry, was sentenced to life at hard labor.

Among others receiving life terms was a West German citizen, Adolf Marx. Another West German, Herman Siebold, who Guinean authorities said committed suicide in his cell, was given a life sentence posthumously.

The names of those sentenced to death were not given, but most of those on trial were Guinean exiles and Guineans taken prisoner at the time of the invasion. The radio said 33 additional death sentences in absentia were pronounced.

President Toure has said that he will extend no clemency. It was believed that those condemned to death would be executed publicly in the country's various regions.

Toure charged that the invaders came from Portuguese Guinea, that the Portuguese Navy transported them and that they were led by mercenaries employed by Portugal. Toure's charges were supported Dec. 8 by a U.N. Security Council resolution based on the findings of a U.N. mission. Portugal denied the charge.

Archbishop Tchidimbo is the second Catholic prelate convicted of antigovernment plotting in Africa. Bishop Albert Ndongmo of Cameroon was sentenced to death earlier this month on charges he conspired to kill the country's president. The sentence was commuted after the Pope and several Western governments appealed for clemency.

Another clergyman, the Anglican dean of Johannesburg, is under arrest in South Africa and will be tried on charges involving "subversive activities," the security police chief in Johannesburg said today. The government has made public no details of the accusations against Dean Gonville-french Beytagh, but there is speculation that they stem from his handling of funds sent from abroad for the families of political detainees.

Derailment at Stephens

STEPHENS, Ark. (AP) — Three cars of a Cotton Belt freight train derailed near here Sunday night. No one was injured.

Railroad officials said the derailed cars carried new General Motors cars and trucks that were being shipped to points in South Arkansas and Texas following the recent settlement of the General Motors strike. All were heavily damaged, officials said.

Repair crews worked through the night repairing damage to rails and signal equipment. It was not known when repairs would be completed.

Countdown Starts for Moon Shot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Electrical power surged into the Saturn 5 rocket and spaceship today as the launch team began the six-day countdown for the Apollo 14 moon-landing flight.

As the lengthy count got under way aiming for a Sunday liftoff, the three astronauts who will fly the mission underwent their final major physical examination.

Test Supervisor Charles Henschel gave the signal and the countdown clock started right on schedule, ticking backwards from 102 hours.

The count actually extends over a longer period, but there are five planned "holds" totaling 38 hours 23 minutes to provide any necessary catchup work.

Barring problems, the Saturn 5 will blast away from Cape Kennedy at 3:23 p.m. Sunday to start Apollo 14 on its daring journey of discovery.

The astronauts—Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa—planned several hours with doctors today.

Purpose of the extensive examination is to make certain the pilots are physically fit and to provide medical data for in-flight and post-flight comparison.

It was after a similar exam last April that doctors announced all three Apollo 13 crewmen had been exposed to German measles. Tests revealed that one of them, Thomas K. Mattingly, was not immune, and he was replaced on the flight crew by backup command module pilot John L. Swigert.

The astronauts spent a relaxed day Sunday, with their time occupied by a mixture of fishing, flying, televised football and flight plans.

Shepard, the mission commander, devoted much of the day to studying the complex flight plan in the crew quarters. Mitchell and Roosa drove to nearby Patrick Air Force Base and spent more than an hour in the air in T38 jet planes, making proficiency runs.

Roosa also joined the Apollo 14 backup astronauts for fishing in waters off Cape Kennedy.

Shepard and Mitchell are to attempt to land on the moon Feb. 5, aiming for a precision touchdown in the rugged Fra Mauro highlands.

Here they plan to set up a nuclear-powered science station and hope to find rocks that date back 4.6 billion years to the creation of the moon. They plan two outside excursions during 33½ hours on the moon.

Amendment.

The amendment—named for sponsoring Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho—bars U.S. combat ground troops and military advisers from Cambodia.

Eyewitness reports and photographs last week indicated U.S. helicopter crewmen have set foot on Cambodian soil, but White House and Pentagon officials denied they were advisers.

Criticism of American action in Cambodia spread over the weekend. In Sacramento, Calif., Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said:

"We're just putting our big toe over the threshold. Before we know it, the whole foot and leg are over the threshold ..."

Muskie, the undeclared front-runner for his party's nomination to the presidency, also is being recommended by the Democratic Steering Committee to be named to the Foreign Relations Committee.

Mansfield suggested Sunday that if the Foreign Affairs Committee doesn't call hearings to consider legislation covering the American role in Cambodia, he will call them himself in his Asian affairs subcommittee.

Golden Age Club Meets

A luncheon meeting of the Golden Age Club was held at the Douglas Building January 21 with 22 members and two visitors present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Eva McKinney. The Rev. Joe Jones, introduced by the president, had a lovely devotional message based on Matt. 6:19. He also led the group in singing two hymns.

Mrs. Wortham performed her duties as secretary-treasurer, and the food committee for February was named. It consists of Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Hogue and Mrs. Wortham. Mildred McCellan won the door prize, and the group joined in singing Happy Birthday to Mrs. Hogue and Mrs. Ola Smith, birthday members for January. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in playing several interesting games.

Copies of the revised version of the club's constitution were distributed as the members arrived. Mrs. Hatch, president, announced that a Junior Music Festival would be held in Hope on Saturday, February 27 at the First Baptist Church. Mrs. B. W. Edwards gave news from Inspiration Point Fine Arts Colony in which clubs in a four-state area are interested.

"Praise to the Lord" by Joachim Neander, the Hymn of the Month, was given a historical background by Mrs. Medders before all joined in singing it. Mrs. Tom Jackson of Columbus was a guest for the afternoon, and she and 21 members were served assorted cookies and spiced tea.

Heritage Club Bridge Play

Mrs. C. P. Tolleson was hostess to a meeting of the Heritage Bridge Club on Thursday, January 21, at the Heritage House. Beef casserole was the main dish at the luncheon served to 12 members.

In the afternoon, bridge was played at 3 tables. Winners were: high, Mrs. Roy Wilson; second high, Mrs. Tolleson; game prize, Mrs. S. L. Murphy; consolation prize, Mrs. Herbert Burns.

for trips but, because of the weather, haven't taken any yet. So she sleeps in the camper and threatens to take it off on her own, as it is "community property" and half hers. She nags and squawks and won't let my children come in the house. She had her son arrested because he didn't pay back money "she" loaned him—except it was my money. Hers is all socked away in a place I can't find.

She thinks I am crazy and I think she is off her rocker. I married to have a peaceful old age. It's only peaceful around here when she is sulking. If she leaves, half of my property goes with her. Help me out of this mess.—BAD BARGAIN

Dear Helen: My husband of six years sent you a letter earlier today. I saw him sneaking it to the mailman. He no doubt told you I had a mental condition, but he is the one. I am 70, he is 71, and thinks he is very sexy. He prefers his family and ladies in church over me. He won't support me. If I want clothes or money for telephone calls to my sister, he says "Pay for them yourself."

But he had enough money to buy an expensive house-car that just sits there because he is too cheap to buy gas for a trip. I tried giving a sack of dropped apples to the mail carrier, but he took them away saying they belonged to him. Then he pulled the plug to the freezer and forgot to hook it in again. When the food spoiled, he suggested I boil it 20 minutes and use it anyway. Why did he unplug the freezer? To save electricity overnight!

If you met this man you'd be impressed, as he puts on a good show but even our pastor has given up on him.

I have moved to the camper outdoors and am having a non-support charge opened against him. Do you blame me? — GOT THE WORST OF IT

Dear Readers: These two letters have been changed to protect the guilty (and I suspect both writers share equally here). What can I say except:

"Look, you scrappy septagenarians: Life is too short to spend it fighting over money. Your combined $500 a month isn't a fortune, but it's ample for a comfortable home life and occasional trips. Forget 'mine and thine' and work out a budget. This won't solve all your problems but it may prove the foolishness of feuding over something you can't take with you. — H.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. DAVID B. PARNELL

Miss Martha Burton Allison and David Bennett Parnell were wed on Saturday, January 23, in a candlelight ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James Lee Roy Allison and late Mr. Allison, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis Parnell of Lake Charles, Louisiana.

Dr. Thomas Brewster of San Angelo, Texas, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Hope, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. A program of wedding music by Mrs. R.L. Gosnell, organist, and William Howard Kessler, Jr., of Jackson, Mississippi soloist, preceded the ceremony.

The chancel of the church was banked with arrangements of candles and greenery, with lighted tapers marking the center aisle of the church. A formal arrangement of white spider mums and stock was placed on either side of the altar, and an archway of brass candleabra formed the background for the exchange of vows.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, James Lee Roy Allison, Jr. of Richmond, Virginia, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory silk peau de sole with an overskirt of ivory silk organza. Designed with a fitted bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace, the dress featured a high scalloped neckline and long Bishop sleeves banded with Alencon lace. The bride's dress was fashioned with an Empire waistline, with borders of Alencon lace leading to the cathedral train. Miss Allison wore a cathedral-length mantilla of French illusion with a deep border of the same Alencon lace as that on her dress. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

For her wedding the bride wore an antique garnet and pearl earrings, a gift of the groom, which had belonged to his grandmother, Mrs. A.J. Christman of Lake Charles. She also wore an antique diamond pin which belongs to her aunt, Mrs. Ellis A. Lavender of Irving, Texas, and an antique gold bracelet which has been worn by eight generations of brides in her family.

Mrs. James Lee Roy Allison, Jr. of Richmond, Virginia, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal gown fashioned with a bodice of moss green velvet and a skirt of ivory chiffon, with bands of ecru lace bordering the short puffed sleeves and the Empire waistline. She carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath tied with moss green velvet streamers, and she had a headpiece of fresh flowers.

Identically attired, the bridesmaids were Miss Deborah Jo Anderson, Hopkinsville, Kentucky; Mrs. Samuel Milnor Butler, Jr., Little Rock; Miss Myra Jane Jordan, Quitman, Georgia; Miss Isabel Poteat Lutken, Jackson, Mississippi; and Miss Marsha Lynn Russell, Hope and Little Rock.

Miss Catherine Ann Christman of Lake Charles, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a long dress of moss green velvet similar to the attendants' dresses and carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

Abraham Christman Parnell of Lake Charles served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Laurence Vincent Brindley, St. Louis, William Howard Kessler, Jr., Jackson, Mississippi; Bruce Norman Kirkpatrick, Charles Warren Richard, Jr., and John Andrew Rollins, all of Lake Charles; and Michael Eugene Lancaster, Tallulah, Louisiana.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Allison selected a formal gown of tangerine velvet featuring a rounded neckline and long fitted sleeves. Her accessories were in a matching shade, and her corsage was of Tallman roses.

Mrs. Parnell's formal gown was of powder blue brocade, designed with a Chelsea neckline and long sleeves. Her accessories were in the same shade of blue, and she wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception at the Hope Country Club followed the ceremony. Guests were greeted by Mrs. James H. Pilkinton and were shown to the bride's table by Mrs. Jack Fielding.

Covered with a white linen cloth, the bride's table was centered with an arrangement of yellow roses and stock. The three-tiered wedding cake and punch were served by Mrs. Ellis Lavender, Irving, Texas; Mrs. Francis Whitley, Shreveport; Mrs. Dan Logan, Gilliam, Louisiana; Mrs. Lillian Keith, Stamps; Mrs. Haskell Allison, Tyler; Mrs. Thomas Brewster, San Angelo; Mrs. A. L. Hardage, Little Rock; Mrs. Wayne Russell, and Mrs. Jud Martindale.

Flowers in various shades of bronze and gold decorated the groom's table, where chocolate cake and coffee were served by: Mrs. Ernest Christman, Mrs. Robert Christman, Mrs. Herman House, and Miss Susan Ehlers, all of Lake Charles; Mrs. Fred Parnell, Jr. and Miss D'Lane Miller, Baton Rouge; Mrs. Rae Parnell and Miss Maribeth Wellborn, Houston; and Mrs. William Kessler, Jr., Jackson, Mississippi.

Champagne was served from a fountain decorated with greenery, and assorted hot and cold hors d'oeuvres were served from a table covered with an ecru cloth and centered with an arrangement of fresh fruit.

Others who assisted in dispensing hospitality included Miss Kay Parnell, Baton Rouge; the Misses Laura and Louise Christman, Lake Charles; Miss Kiz Burton, El Dorado; Mrs. Carter Hardage, Little Rock; Mrs. Byron Thomason, Magnolia; Mrs. Michael Allen, Mrs. Jim Pilkinton, Miss Ellen Turner, Miss Marjorie Royston, Miss Nancy Martindale, and Miss Kay Caldwell.

Rice bags were distributed to the guests by the Misses Catherine Ann and Amy Christman and Master James Wright Christman of Lake Charles, cousins of the bridegroom.

When Mr. and Mrs. Parnell left for their honeymoon trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, the bride was attired in a mid-dress of brown tweed wool with bows and other accessories of brown suede. The couple will be

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Pearl Bailey, wrapped in chinchilla, exuding vitality and her special kind of warmth, invaded television Saturday night to launch her ABC series. She almost seemed to be daring the audience to kiss off "The Pearl Bailey Show" as just another variety hour.

But in spite of all her effort and some pretty impressive guest talent, it was, most of the time, the standard variety mix. The guest stars—Bing Crosby, Andy Williams and Louis Armstrong—were their usual ingratiating selves, although hardly strangers to the variety show circuit. Miss Bailey sang some numbers with which she is associated. There were dancers and lavish background.

There was a particularly bright piece of special material in which the guest stars sang each other's most famous hits Williams and Armstrong doing "Where the Blue of the Night Meets the Gold of the Day," while Bing looked pained; Crosby and Armstrong warbling "Moon River," and

Rehearsal Dinner For Allison-Parnell Wedding

On the evening before the wedding the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis Parnell, entertained with a rehearsal dinner at the Heritage House. The table was centered with pink camellias, and the bride pinned a corsage of camellias to her peach silk crepe dress. The couple chose this time to present gifts to their attendants.

Williams and Crosby picking up Armstrong's "Mack the Knife." All this led to Miss Bailey's big "Hello, Dolly" number. It worked, but her duet with Armstrong, "Didn't We," somehow didn't come off, perhaps because they just didn't look like young lovers.

The star dominated the show, scattering Pearl-Mae cracks liberally throughout her numbers, dancing a bit and singing a lot. She is a skillful, vibrant performer of great individuality.

Somebody had a real inspiration: Why not shoot an ice show outdoors? The result was the delightful "Peggy Fleming at Sun Valley" on NBC Sunday evening, by any yardstick the most entertaining, handsomest special of its time to come along.

The program was taped at the Idaho resort with real scenery for background. The pretty, graceful star was in top skating form and also served as hostess, narrator and, a couple of times, resident comedian. In one segment, Jean Claude Killy was half of a competition to match each of Peggy's skating tricks on ice with one of his own on skis on snow. There was an unexpected, amusing comedy segment at the end when a number of out-takes—tape shot but ruined by a mishap—were run. They showed Peggy and Jean Claude taking some unpremeditated headers.

The hour may have been a little lavish in plugging the resort, and a tour of the area night club did nothing but introduce some musical numbers by "The Carpenters." But once the program was on ice or on the ski slopes, it demonstrated that ice shows don't have to be look-alikes.

SMU Stings Bears in SWC Play

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

It's the "inside story" that explains the difference in Southern Methodist's 96-86 Southwest Conference basketball victory over the Baylor Bears Saturday.

The Ponies have long been chronicled for their strong outside shooters—headed by marksman George Phillips. But they've been getting inconsistent performance from their inside people.

That all changed Saturday as the Mustangs ended Baylor's 6-game winning streak and kept the Bears from taking the SWC lead with a 3-0 record.

"I think we got more consistent play from our inside men than we have been getting," SMU coach Bob Prewitt said. But he's not going overboard by saying the Ponies now have jelled because of Saturday's showing.

"You can't go on the indications of one game," Prewitt said. "We played well against Baylor and I hope we can continue. For us to do well, we have to have good inside play to go with our outside play. I just hope our inside men keep improving."

SMU's victory evened the Ponies' SWC record at 1-1 and dropped Baylor to 2-1. It also gave the lead to Rice and TCU with 2-0 records. Baylor is tied with Texas Tech each with 2-1 records.

The current co-leaders try to keep pace with each other Tuesday night on a three-game card. Texas A&M goes to Rice and SMU is at TCU. Texas is at Southern Illinois in a non-league breather.

Baylor Coach Bill Menefee wouldn't single out SMU's inside men as making the difference. "Willie Chatmon scored 35 points. Does that sound like we had trouble inside?" he said. "SMU's entire team played well. They whipped us on their home court and they played a fine game and we didn't play as well."

Except for Chatmon, Menefee said the Bears didn't shoot well. "Normally we have quite a few people scoring good. But we just didn't have enough going last night."

TCU pulled into a share of the lead with a 64-59 victory over Texas A&M and Texas Tech defeated Texas 68-62 for its first victory under new head coach Gerald Myers.

The Frogs are only 6-8 for the season but have started to jell and Coach Johnny Swaim gives much of the credit to Eugene "Coo" Kennedy, who leads the SWC in rebounding and is fourth in scoring.

Swaim says of Kennedy: "He's the best I've ever seen here at going to the boards on both ends of the court. He has tremendous hustle and usually shoots fantastically, percentage-wise from the field. He has contributed greatly to our team."

A&M Hurdler Winner at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Fuller Cherry of Arkansas A&M defeated Louis Clark of Dickinson State, N.D., in the 60-yard high hurdles during the finals of the 6th Annual NAIA National Association of Intercollegiate indoor track and field championships.

Cherry ran the event in 7.4 seconds Saturday.

Mel Renfro Hero of Pro Bowl Game

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mel Renfro of the Dallas Cowboys, the focal point of a controversial tipped pass in the Super Bowl, came to the Pro Bowl an unhappy man, proclaiming his innocence. But he left today a happy man, admitting his guilt.

The strange transformation took place in the Pro Bowl Sunday when Renfro returned to touchdowns 82 and 56 yards for touchdowns in the fourth quarter while leading the National Conference All-Stars to a convincing 27-6 triumph over their American Conference colleagues.

For a crowd of 48,222 it was exciting. For the NFC it staked another claim to superiority over the AFC. And for Renfro it lessened the pain of the Super Bowl defeat seven days earlier.

"It takes some of the bite out of that," Renfro said afterward. "I was real upset when I got here. I felt real bad about losing. It was sad coming off the Super Bowl loss. I didn't say much all week. I just stood around."

While he was standing around, still thinking about the pass that led to Baltimore's first touchdown in the Super Bowl and contributed to their victory over the Cowboys, Renfro had an opportunity to look at films of the controversial play.

And he admitted he tipped the pass, making it a legal play. "I didn't think I touched it," he explained. "But I saw the films, and the ball changed direction, so I must have touched it."

In the Pro Bowl, whenever he touched something, it produced points for his team, beginning in the third period. The NFC led only 10-3 at that point with a 23-yard pass by San Francisco's John Brodie to Dave Osborn of Minnesota the only touchdown in the game.

Then Renfro tipped a pass by Oakland's Daryle Lamonica, Fred Carr of Green Bay intercepted and the NFC built its lead to 13-3 on a field goal by Minnesota's Fred Cox. Jan Stenerud of Kansas City got that back for the AFC just moments later when Cecil Turner of Chicago fumbled a punt—but that fumble was the turning point.

Until then, Turner and Renfro had been aligned side by side on punt returns. But when they came off the field after the fumble, Coach Dick Nolan called the two returners aside. "After the problem Dick told me to get back and field everything I could while Cecil fielded the short ones," Renfro revealed.

The strategic change enabled Renfro to field the two punts in the fourth quarter—and break the game open.

But while it was Renfro's returns that furnished the finishing flourish, the NFC statistically, at least, clearly established its superiority in the first test of strength between the all-stars of the two conferences.

Over-all, the NFC gained 337 yards to 146 for the AFC, 112 yards to 66 rushing and 225 to 80 passing.

Brodie totally obscured his AFC counterpart, completing 10 of 26 passes for 156 yards. Lamonica hit on only four of 21. Osborn, who caught the lone touchdown pass of the game, grabbed four passes in all for 58 yards and was the leading ground gainer with 45 yards in 10 tries.

Defensively, the NFC front four, manned at different times by Deacon Jones of Los Angeles, Bob Lilly of Dallas, Claude Humphrey of Atlanta and Alan Page, Carl Eller and Gary Larsen of Minnesota, continually harassed Lamonica and his replacement, Miami's Bob Griese.

While neither NFC quarterback—Brodie and Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants—was dumped for a loss, the AFC passers were struck down five times.

But what the statistics showed—the AFC wasn't about to buy. "There's no conclusion about the conferences to be drawn from the game," said AFC Coach John Madden. "Neither team controlled the ball, and both defenses were hitting and tackling well. The score may look worse than the way the teams played."

"I wouldn't think this game showed the NFC was ahead of the AFC," said Oakland center

Jim Otto, "and I wouldn't think a game like this can be the true test of the two conferences. It's more difficult to get fired up for a game like this than a regular game."

But Otto did admit that the first AFC-NFC Pro Bowl was far more than an exhibition game in which the game's greatest stars paraded their individual talents.

"There was rivalry out there," he pointed out. "You could feel it. But they seemed more together and more fired up than we were."

Confusion as Russia Boxers Win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Maybe the next time they hold the Russian-American amateur boxing matches, they should have an interpreter in the ring along with the referee.

Lack of understanding caused heated words Saturday afternoon at the close of the third series of matches pitting American amateurs against the Soviet Union's best. The Russians won the team match, 6-5, but in the final match of the day things got complicated.

Ron Lyle, a promising heavyweight from Denver, Colo., had his Russian foe, Kamo Saroyan, hanging on the ropes in the third and final round. Russian referee Vasily Romanov halted the bout and waved Lyle into a neutral corner.

After counting to five or six, Romanov was apparently going to walk Saroyan to his corner and had awarded Lyle a technical knockout. But because he spoke only Russian, no one knew what was going on.

Neither did Lyle, and when the referee did not raise Lyle's hand over his head, signifying the fight was over, Lyle ran over to Saroyan and tried to finish him off.

Romanov was fired by Lyle's actions and immediately interpreters, Russian officials and members of the AAU subcommittee on international boxing convened at ringside. Five minutes elapsed before the official word of the ring announcer that Lyle had been awarded a three-round TKO.

The U.S. team had saved its four best boxers for last because the last four matches would be televised nationally. All four won their bout but it wasn't enough to overcome a 6-1 lead built up by the visitors.

The Americans were the aggressors in all of the 11 matches and the Russians were the passive counter-punchers. Seven of the matches went the three-round limit, three went to Americans on kayos and one was a knockout by a Russian.

UCLA, Packers Grid Bosses

TWO MEN who have recently taken new head coaching jobs are obviously handy to have around. Pepper Rogers (left) counts on his fingers the number of ways he plans to improve UCLA football. (Rogers had been head coach at Kansas.) And Dan Devine, former Missouri coach, rubs his chin in anticipation of taking over the job for the Green Bay Packers.

Notre Dame Beats UCLA, Yells No. 1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Dee was contemplating lofty positions. "I think we should be No. 1," said the Notre Dame basketball coach, mincing no words.

Why?

"We beat UCLA."

It's a good argument, you must admit, because nobody—well, hardly anybody—beats top-ranked UCLA at basketball.

But Dee's giant-killing team did just that before 11,343 hysterical partisans Saturday, applying the 89-82 crusher behind Austin Carr's 46 points.

"We think we should be No. 1 regardless of any won-lost records," said Dee, whose ninth-rated team has lost four games this year. "Nobody has come close to playing the caliber of teams we have to date this season, and I think knocking off the top team should put us in that same spot."

Before the UCLA upset, Notre Dame had lost close ones to South Carolina, Marquette and Indiana, all high in the rankings at one time or another, and surging Duquesne.

"Besides that, we played highly-rated Kentucky and beat them 99-92 and we opened with a victory over a Michigan team that had won nine of its last 10 games," said Dee.

"I'd like to see how any of the current top-rated teams would be standing now with that kind of schedule. So maybe they won't like it at Marquette (currently No. 2), but in my book, Notre Dame is No. 1 in the country."

Marquette continued to give strong argument in its behalf by winning its 25th in a row, a 73-51 walk over DePaul.

Fourth-ranked Penn beat No. 14 Villanova 78-70; fifth-ranked Kansas slammed Oklahoma State 90-55; No. 6 Jacksonville blasted Mercer 93-76; Murray State surprised No. 7 Western Kentucky 73-71; eighth-rated Tennessee clouted Alabama 79-62 and Duquesne's giant-killing Dukes slapped No. 10 St. Bonaventure 89-88.

UCLA Coach John Wooden dubbed Carr "tremendous" after the slick Notre Dame star shredded the Bruins with one of his best performances.

"We simply were outplayed, that's usually what happens when you lose. And it happened again Saturday," said Wooden, giving no excuses for a dog-tired UCLA team that was playing its second game in 18 hours.

The Bruins had beaten Loyola of Chicago the night before for their 19th straight victory and 134th in the last 138 games over the last six phenomenal seasons.

What happened Saturday? "We just met a team that played better than we did," said Wooden.

The Fighting Irish also shackled high-scoring Sidney Wicks in the first half, holding the Bruins' standout forward without a field goal the first eight minutes.

Meanwhile, Sidney Booker's hands were tied against Carr. "We told Booker to overplay Carr on the outside and to expect help if Carr drove to the basket," said Wooden. "Unfortunately, our big men didn't give him that help."

UCLA was guilty of 15 turnovers, which helped the Irish spring to a 37-24 lead five minutes before halftime. The Bruins came back to tie it at 47 three minutes into the second half, but Awesome Austin helped Notre Dame pull away.

Marquette played catchup after trailing 35-33 at the half. The Warriors muffed DePaul in the second half, allowing the Blue Demons only 16 points.

Dean Meminger corralled 19 points and big Jim Chones chipped in 18 as mighty Marquette ran off its 26th victory in two years and nailed its 52nd straight home court victory.

Penn's Quakers also had to charge back from a halftime deficit to take Villanova's Wildcats. It was 39-34 Villanova at halftime, then Bob Morse and Dave Wohl led a 12-4 spurt in the early going of the second half to give the Quakers their 15th straight victory.

Kansas scored the most points ever against defense-minded Oklahoma State as Roger Brown netted 19 and Dave Robisch, 18.

Jacksonville used 17 points in the remaining four minutes by Artis Gilmore, Vaughn Wedekind and Greg Nelson to whip Mercer; Murray State upended powerful Western Kentucky on sophomore Les Taylor's three points in the last 19 seconds; Tennessee spanked Alabama behind a 28-point performance by Jim England and 26 by Don Johnson, and Jarrett Durham's 25 points helped Duquesne lick a Top Ten team for the second time in a week. The Dukes earlier victimized Notre Dame.

Among the other ranked clubs, Kentucky and Utah State, tied for 12th, both won. Kentucky stopped Louisiana State 82-79 and Utah State beat Brigham Young 72-70. LaSalle, the country's 15th-rated power, topped Lafayette 93-82 and No. 16 Oregon turned back Washington State 95-68.

Former Resident Teaches Bowling in Michigan City

The following story was published in the Esconoba Daily Press, Esconoba, Mich. Margie will be remembered as Mrs. John Harrie, John and Margie operated Shipley Studio in Hope for many years.

Marge was one of the better lady keggles in this area and many area people, young and old, will fondly remember Margie assisting them with their bowling problems.

"It makes me stay young" is the way Mrs. Chet Evans, better known as Marge Evans, replied when I asked her why she was out helping local youngsters master the fine art of bowling.

Marge has been teaching bowling to our area youngsters since 1969 after moving here from Texas. She had taught bowling since 1965. She says she really loves doing this because, "I'm out with the kids and makes me stay young." She is just trying to promote bowling among everyone because she feels it's a nice past-time and a lot of fun.

Mrs. Evans went to an American Junior Bowling Congress instructors school in Arkansas and also attended an advanced bowlers school, so she is well qualified to teach the tricks of the trade.

She is married to Chet Evans, who is employed as a warehouse superintendent for the Rust Engineering Co. at the Mead Paper Plant.

Marge took up this aspect of teaching bowling to youngsters just as a hobby in Hope, Ark., after her first husband died. She had worked as a professional photographer for several years, but then decided to attend the bowling school in Little Rock.

She does all this work on a strictly volunteer basis, not working for any of the bowling lanes and receiving no pay for this work.

The youngsters bowl every Saturday at the Bowl-A-Rama Lanes behind the Delta Plaza, beginning at 10 a.m. when the Star Bantams hit the alley. This league is comprised of youths bowling for the first time in the 6-12 age bracket.

The Jacks and Jills League for the advanced 6-12 age group bowl at 1:00, followed by the teenage group, aged 13-21, at 3:00. A few openings still exist in these leagues, and if you are interested, stop out to the bowling alley any Saturday and register. All the bowlers are sanctioned by the AJBC.

balls, while teens use regulation bowling balls, up to 16 pounds. An honor court game has also been established for the local league, giving the youths something extra special to shoot for. The Star Bantams use 85 for that while the Jacks and Jills go to 125 for an honor game.

Mrs. Evans started the year by showing a film on how to organize a league, then demonstrated the basic four step approach and the delivery of the ball. She stated the biggest problem for the kids is remembering to get their hand and arm straight out and not trying to fire the ball down the alley.

Sponsors of the league pay ten dollars each, which goes to a banquet at the season's close, trophies and awards. The sponsors also donate bowling shirts for each kегler, just as is done in the older leagues.

Lot Of Fun
This is a fine way for the kids to learn the art of bowling and have a good time with people their own ages, all learning the sport the same way and enduring the same obstacles. The kids have a lot of fun, and have a way to spend those dull, boring Saturday mornings and

Figures ABA to Pay $20 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — It will cost the American Basketball Association about $20 million to sign 33 players selected in its college draft because of the bidding war with the rival National Basketball Association, says ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph.

Dolph's estimate Sunday came in the aftermath of a busy weekend for the league, which held its annual draft of the nation's college stars and an East-West All-Star game in Greensboro, N.C.

Providing a big chunk of the Dolph estimate would be Artis Gilmore, Jacksonville's 7-foot-2 center picked in the first round by the Kentucky Colonels. Gilmore reportedly is seeking a $2.7 million contract.

The ABA was reported by the Charlotte Observer to have authorized a $2 million, five-year contract for Gilmore at a league meeting in Memphis, Tenn., last Dolph said the ABA had reached agreements with agents reportedly representing the collegians, but denied that they had actually signed contracts, as reported.

"The stories out of Greensboro, N.C., are shot full of inaccuracies," Dolph said, referring to reports that Gilmore, Howard Porter of Villanova, Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky and Ken Durrett of LaSalle had signed contracts.

However, he added, "Some of the players mentioned have not signed and others not mentioned have signed with agents. We haven't talked to any players, only agents who say they can deliver certain players. We have reached agreements with those agents."

Dolph defended the ABA's action of signing players with college eligibility remaining, pointing out that a college player is not allowed to have an agent under NCAA rules.

"If a kid has signed with an agent, he already has broken the eligibility rule," he said.

McDaniels was picked by Utah, Porter by Pittsburgh and Durrett by Virginia, all in the first round. The other first round picks were Elmore Smith of Kentucky State, by Carolina; Cliff Meely of Colorado, by Denver; Willie Sojourner of Weber State and Dana Lewis of Tulsa, by Virginia; Randy Denton of Duke, by Memphis and Stan Love of Oregon, by Texas.

The other two rounds were:

Texas—Sidney Wicks, UCLA; Roger Brown, Kansas, and Mike Szczerbiak, George Washington. Pittsburgh—Levi Wyatt, Alcorn A&M, and Jim O'Brien, Boston College.

Carolina—Rich Yunkus, Georgia Tech; Gregg Northington, Alabama State, and Ted McClain, Tennessee State.

Denver—Marv Roberts, Utah State, and Mike Newlin, Utah.

Floridians—Willie Long, New Mexico.

New York—Charlie Davis, Wake Forest; Bob Kissane, Holy Cross, and Marv Stewart, Nebraska.

Indiana—Darrell Hillman, San Jose, and John Mengelt, Auburn.

Memphis—Jim Rose, Western Kentucky, and Threpe Weber, Vanderbilt.

Johnson is Winner in Bowling Meet

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Barry Asher, a 25-year-old pro from Canoga Park, Calif., led from the opening gun but Don Johnson of the bowling city of Akron, Ohio finished things resounding in the $7,777.77 Shotboat Invitational bowling tournament.

Saturday's match play began with Asher leading and Johnson second and three others hoping to challenge. Johnson had jumped from fourth to second in Friday's semifinal play, during which he was tops among the 16 semifinalists in match play ringing up a score of 11-5.

That match-game experience paid off against Asher as Johnson rolled strikes in eight of his last nine frames, wound up with a 269 game and earned $11,111.11 for first place.

Asher, who had averaged 235 per game for the first 40 games, finished the final-round match with six consecutive strikes and a 223, but he was far off and won $7,777.77 for second place.

Jim Ryun Is Convincing in Comeback

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer

Famed miler Jim Ryun returned to indoor track after an absence of 19 months with a convincing triumph while virtual unknown Al Feuerbach arrived on the shotput scene with a bang.

The pair of Kansas athletes topped the weekend action which included meets in San Francisco, Albuquerque, N.M., Kansas City and Philadelphia.

Ryun and Feuerbach performed their feats at the Examiner All-American Games in San Francisco Friday night, Ryun winning the mile in 4:04.4, capping the victory with a 56.7 final quarter on the 11-board banked track at the Cow Palace.

Feuerbach, a year out of Emporia State College in Kansas, ripped a world record indoor toss of 68 feet 11 inches, beating former record-holder Randy Matson by three inches. Matson held the former indoor mark of 67-10.

The 23-year-old Ryun, formerly of Kansas University, who quit track after dropping out of the AAU outdoor championships midway through the mile race in Miami in June, 1968, said he felt "good and wasn't fatigued at the finish."

Feuerbach, a 246-pounder, has been a remarkable success. His previous best shotput prior to the 1970 season, 13 months ago, was only 58-10 1/2.

The 23-year-old, whose outdoor best is 65 feet, still feels Matson is the one to beat and plans on doing nothing but train for the 1972 Olympics.

On Saturday, the pair met again at Albuquerque and this time Matson came out on top with a meet record heave of 68 feet. Feuerbach was second at 66-2 1/4.

Other winners at San Francisco were Australia's Kerry Pearce in the two-mile, 8:38.2; Olympic champions Lee Evans, 440, 49.1 and Willie Davenport, 60-hurdles, 7-1; and Sam Caruthers in the pole vault, 16-6.

At Albuquerque, George Young won his 19th straight indoor race and second this year, beating Pearce in the two-mile by one-tenth of a second in 8:56.0 while Rob Mitchell of Houston University raced to a 220-yard indoor record enroute to a 300-yard victory in 30.5 over the 10-lap board track.

Mitchell, clocked by three officials at the 220 distance in 21.6, bettered the listed standard of 22.2 set in 1935 by New York City schoolboy Ted Ellison.

At Saturday's Philadelphia Track Classic, the heralded duel between world record holder at 600 yards Martin McGrady and Olympic 440-meter sprint champion Lee Evans, failed to materialize.

Evans was delayed when he missed plane connections while McGrady, upset because of an uncomplimentary pre-race story in a local paper, declined to run. Evans, however, ran an exhibition 440 by himself and was clocked in 50.2, 2 seconds better than the winner of the invitational 440, Poland's Andrzej Badenski.

European mile champion Henryk Szordykowski, another Pole, captured the mile in 4:06.5, beating Irish Olympian Frank Murphy by a half step on the 12-lap banked boards of Convention Hall.

In the 50-yard dash, Army Capt. Mel Pender zipped to victory in 5.3, nipping Charlie Greene while Dr. Delano Meriwether, the 27-year-old hematologist from Baltimore's Cancer Research Center, having trouble with his starts, was fifth in the six-man field.

At the NAIA indoor championships at Kansas City Friday and Saturday, Jean Louis Ravelomanantso of Madagascar, running for Westmont, Calif., College, flashed to a 5.9 second clocking in the 60-yard dash, equalling the world record. Another noteworthy mark was Jerry Proctor's victory in the long jump. Proctor, Redlands, Calif., equaled his NAIA record with a 25-4 1/4 leap.

Three Point Play Wins for Denver

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three into one will go ... as the Kentucky Colonels found out.

Denver crammed three points into the last second of play and whipped the Colonels 119-116 in the American Basketball Association Sunday night.

With the scored knotted at 116 with a second remaining, Denver's Byron Beck hit the first free throw in a three-and-two foul situation.

The second shot was disallowed when Denver's Ralph Simpson stepped across the line too soon.

Beck then missed the last try, but Don Sidle stuffed the rebound for the game's final points.

Elsewhere in the ABA, New York turned back Utah 108-107 in overtime; Pittsburgh swept by Carolina 118-101; Virginia tipped Indiana 130-128 and Memphis defeated the Floridians 112-106 in overtime.

In the NBA, it was Boston 121, Cleveland 110; New York 117, Detroit 105; Milwaukee 142, Atlanta 120; Buffalo 123, Portland 111; Los Angeles 142, Cincinnati 131; Phoenix 113, Chicago 112 and Philadelphia 145, Seattle 119.

There were no regular games scheduled Saturday night in the ABA because of the All-Star game, won by the East 126-122.

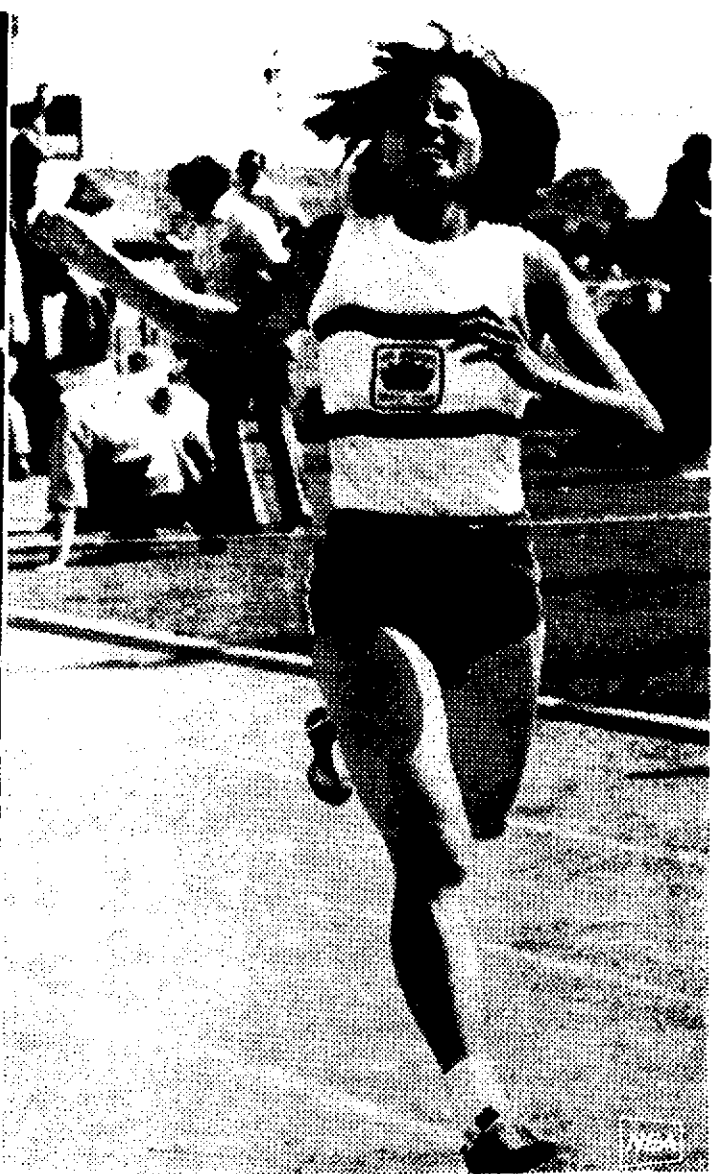

Les Hunter, who scored 34 points, twice rallied Kentucky in its see-saw battle with Denver. The Colonels once battled back from an 18-point deficit.

Rick Barry scored nine overtime points, including a tie-breaking free throw in the final minute, to give the Nets their one-point victory over Utah.

Southern S. Overcomes Deficit, Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern State overcame a 41-35 halftime deficit to defeat Harding College 71-67 in AIC basketball action Saturday night.

Al Flannigan was the leading scorer for State with 19.

In other AIC action, Bill Niemann of Principia College scored 25 points to lead his team to an 85-83 nonconference basketball victory over College of the Ozarks.

Principia led all the way but had the lead narrowed from nine points at the end of the first half to a slim three when the game ended.

High scorer for College of the Ozarks was Bob Brown with 17.

Lion Sleeps Winner as Expected

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Trainer John Zarthar put blinkers on Lion Sleeps last Dec. 1, and the 5-year-old gelding hasn't seen anything but the winner's circle since.

Lion Sleeps, owned by Celestino DiLibero and ridden by Bill Hartack led from the start Saturday in winning the $32,150 Royal Palm Handicap at Hialeah for his sixth straight victory, the last four in stakes, since being fitted with blinkers.

There was doubt Lion Sleeps would be able to carry high weight of 127 pounds over seven furlongs—the other victories in the string were at six furlongs—but he did it tenaciously for a nose victory over Thomas and James Grissom's Spotted Line, 114, with C.V. Whitney's favored True North, 112, third.

Another winning streak was extended when Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Rum gained his fifth straight by scoring by a nose over Tri-Colour Stable's Jig Dancer in the $28,350 Pimlico Stakes for one-year-olds at Pimlico.

Eric Walsh sent Rum, $4.60, over the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 under 119 pounds, three more than Jig Dancer and nine more than third-place Cocky Raider.

In the richest race of the weekend, the $43,100 San Marco Handicap over 1 1/4 miles on the turf at Santa Anita, Bill Shoemaker-guided Mary F. Jones Chilean-bred Cougar II to an easy victory.

snapped a 105 tie. He added a free throw with 21 seconds left, offsetting a Utah basket by Nerv Jackson at the buzzer.

John Brisker's 41 points led Pittsburgh, which had to fight back from a 12-point deficit.

Charlie Scott had 28 points, Neil Johnson, 27 and Mike Barrett, 25 as Virginia rallied in the final quarter to overcome a 43-point performance by Indiana's Freddie Lewis.

Willie Ladner had 34 points to pace Memphis over the Floridians. Mack Calvin was high man for the Floridians with 29.

Jim: "Declarer's first consideration in no-trump play is to look around for ways he can develop tricks to add to the sure ones he started with."

Oswald: "If he can develop enough tricks to guarantee his contract by going after one specific suit he should go after that suit. If he can attack two or even three suits he should start with the suit that will allow him to go after the others later on."

Jim: "South has seven top tricks to start with. He can surely get one more in spades and two more if West holds the king. He will get one extra trick in hearts if the suit breaks 3-3; one extra trick in clubs if the finesse is on; two extra tricks in diamonds if the suit behaves very nicely or one extra trick if the suit behaves fairly well. The prospects are pleasing, but a careless declarer might well get himself set."

Oswald: "If he attacks spades at trick two East will get on lead with the king and shift to a club. South will play the queen. West will take his king and clear the suit before South has a chance to develop a diamond trick and another game will have disappeared."

Jim: "If South attacks diamonds at trick two he will be able to keep the dangerous hand out of the lead. The winning play is to take the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts, lead a diamond and play the eight or 10. This will lose to West's jack, but he can't hurt you in clubs. South will have set up his third diamond trick and will be left with time to knock out the king of spades."

Oswald: "Should West hold four diamonds to the queen-jack South won't be able to set up a third diamond trick, but he will still have time for other suits."

Women Need Not Be Bald

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am scared and don't know where to turn. I'm 28 and have three children. Other than an operation for appendicitis I have never been ill. Four years ago my hair started falling out and it falls out by the fistful. I go to the beauty shop every Saturday. A young operator told me I'd be bald in two years. I can't sleep or eat and just the thought starts me to cry. My husband says it is all foolishness, but I would rather be dead than bald. Would you please tell me who I should see or what to do to help me? We don't have much money, but I'd gladly go to work if necessary.

Dear Reader—Baldness in women is more common than you might think, although it usually occurs in later years. Of course, you are not bald YET. There are a lot of causes for baldness. Sometimes it is the result of a glandular disturbance. The small gland at the base of the brain sometimes is injured in childbirth and leads to multiple gland problems. The thyroid gland function is important, too.

Nervousness sometimes causes a loss of hair—even in patches. This may be a contributing factor in your case.

Another cause for loss of hair is frequent use of harsh chemicals in beauty treatments. That trip to the beauty parlor every Saturday may be costing you more than money. Considering some of the things that are done to hair it is a wonder that any of it survives.

I think you really ought to go to see a skin specialist (dermatologist). He can tell you if you also need some studies for endocrine gland function or if you just need to stop all those hair treatments.

If your loss of hair is caused by nervousness, perhaps knowing this is the cause will help you to relax and nature will solve your problem.

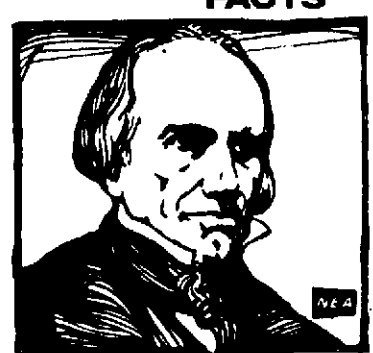

Since you don't have much money, why don't you drop the beauty parlor off your list of expenses for awhile and merely shampoo your hair at home (not too often) for a few weeks and see what happens? Don't use bleach or tint or other beauty preparations.

About one-third of diabetics can be treated with dietary management alone.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Henry Clay, American statesman, was instrumental in preparing the Missouri Compromise (1820) and the Compromise of 1850, which earned him the name of the "Great Pacificator." The World Almanac recalls. After a U.S. senator declared support of the Missouri Compromise would ruin Clay's chances for president, Clay retorted: "I had rather be right than be president."

The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, mentioned in the last book of the New Testament, represent Conquest, Slaughter, Famine and Death.

So You Want To Be

By ERNIE HOOD

Luther S. Maryville, Tenn., writes: "I signed up for a commercial art course, but can't decide which type to specialize in. Any suggestions?"

Dear Luther: Perhaps some facts on employment opportunities will help, because demand for commercial artists is expected to vary with the type of specialization.

For example, demand for paste-up and mechanical artists is expected to increase through the 1970s. Jobs for designers, art directors and layout men, however, will continue to be few and open only to experienced, highly talented and creative artists.

Upward trends in business expenditures for advertising should create a slow increase in the need for artists trained in television graphics, packaging design, poster and window displays and greeting cards. Additionally, artists qualified to perform three-dimensional work with engineering conceptions will be needed in the growing field of industrial design.

Donald P., St. Paul, Minn., writes: "I make good grades in both science and English. One of my teachers suggested I become a technical writer. Is this a good career?"

Dear Donald: Well-qualified and experienced technical writers can expect very good employment opportunities in the 1970s. However, beginners with good writing ability and scientific education also should find good opportunities.

Some employers prefer degrees in engineering or science with courses in writing, while others seek English or journalism majors who have had scientific courses. All employers, however, place heavy emphasis on writing skills.

Starting salaries range from $5,000 to $7,000 per year, with experienced writers earning up to $20,000 annually.

Phoenix Suns on the Rise in Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Phoenix Suns are on the rise in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association.

Two free throws by Mel Counts with five seconds remaining Sunday gave the Suns a 113-112 victory over Chicago and pulled them within one game of the third-place Bulls. They trail second-place Detroit by 4½ games following the Pistons' 117-105 loss to New York.

Elsewhere, Milwaukee crushed Atlanta 142-120, Boston whipped Cleveland 121-110, Buffalo trounced Portland 123-111, Los Angeles downed Cincinnati 142-131 and Philadelphia turned back Seattle 145-119.

In the American Basketball Association, it was Denver 119, Kentucky 116; Pittsburgh 118, Carolina 101; Memphis 112, the Floridians 106 in overtime; New York 108, Utah 107 also in overtime and Virginia 130, Indiana 128.

Counts' decisive free throws capped a rally which saw the Suns wipe out an 11-point deficit in the final period.

Bob Love had 34 points and Chet Walker 30 for the Bulls while Counts and Paul Silas had 18 apiece for the Suns.

Willis Reed became New York's all-time scoring leader with 24 points in the Knicks' nationally televised victory over the Pistons. The big center has 10,511 in his seven-year career, erasing the mark of 10,499 in 12 seasons set by Carl Braun.

Reed was asked what the record meant to him. "I guess it means I've been with this club a long time," he said.

Bill Bradley chipped in with 22 points while Dave Bing had 26 for the Pistons.

Bob Dandridge scored 33 points, Oscar Robertson 29 and Lew Alcindor 24 as Milwaukee routed Atlanta. The Bucks, best shooting team in the NBA, were torrid, making 59 of 90 attempts for 65.6 per cent. Pete Maravich paced the Hawks with 30 points.

Boston breezed to a 29-point lead over Cleveland and coasted home as John Havlicek scored 36 points and Jo Jo White 28. John Johnson's 29 was high for the hapless Cavaliers.

Buffalo ran its winning streak to three games, longest for the Braves in their initial NBA campaign, as Bob Kauffman scored 30 points against Portland. The Braves outscored the Trail Blazers 10-2 in the final 2½ minutes of the first period and were never headed. Jeff Petrie netted 28 points for Portland, which has dropped six in a row.

4-Man Bobsled Crews Tackle Tricky Course

CERVINIA, Italy (AP) — The four-man bobsled crews took over the tricky Blue Lake course today as West German and Swiss entrants sought revenge over the Italians who swept the two-man titles. The competition so far has been marred by accidents, controversy and bad weather.

The Italians were once again the ones to beat.

The four-man championship, however, reflected in some way the accidents that have troubled the two-man competition on the 1,540-meter course throughout the past week.

The track has been the scene of 17 accidents in one week, which knocked seven crews out of the race and killed the brakeman of Spain No. 1.

The two-man championships have knocked out top four-man title drivers and raised doubts

Tells Welfare Dept. to Not Use Hotels

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has ordered an immediate halt to the practice of using hotels as temporary housing for welfare or relocation families except "in cases of extreme emergency, such as fires."

Even those exceptions, he said, can be made only with the approval of the administrator or his designee in either the Human Resources Administration or the Housing and Development Administration, depending on the type of case.

The use of hotels as temporary shelter because of the housing shortage has come under increasing fire, particularly when a welfare family of five was sent to the posh Waldorf-Astoria for two days last week at a cost of $152.64.

Welfare workers said subsequently that the Waldorf was a comparative bargain, citing instances where the city paid up to $1,240 a week for house welfare families in considerably less elegant settings.

In his order Sunday, the mayor directed the two city agencies to "mount a coordinated program to relocate the families presently living temporarily in hotels." There are about 1,100 such families.

HRA Administrator Jule M. Sugarman said there was no way to eliminate hotel placements but added, "The mayor's directive makes it clear that every alternative must be taken and then only as a last resort will a family be placed in a hotel."

Sugarman said a new state-approved plan that allows the city to pay back rent and deduct it from future welfare payments to prevent evictions might eliminate about 25 per cent of the cases.

The final solution to the problem can only be new low and middle-income housing, he said.

McClellan Target of Legislator

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Julian Bond, Georgia legislator, compared Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to the late Sen. Joe McCarthy Saturday and said McClellan conducted his investigations in a "backdoor" manner.

"Hopefully he (McClellan) won't be in the Senate too much longer," Bond said during a news conference.

The Georgia legislator said McClellan was a "vicious" man who "tries to regulate what people in this country are thinking."

Bond charged that McClellan had "engineered" a raid on the home of two of Bond's friends who were working with coal miners in Pike County, Kentucky. He said that papers confiscated in the raid were used by McClellan to tie the two to a riot in Nashville.

Bond said through legal action the pair got the papers back and then were found in contempt of the Senate for refusing to turn the papers back over to the Senate.

Later Saturday Bond spoke before the Arkansas Council on Human Relations.

In that speech he called for solidarity and political action in the black community. He said that blacks should become involved in politics because politics touches everyone's life.

In reviewing black political gain in the South, Bond noted that Arkansas is the only southern state with an all-white General Assembly.

Congressional Power Struggle Lines Drawn

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The line has been drawn early for a power struggle in the House between the new speaker, Carl Albert, and the committee chairmen who are largely in control.

In his first full day on the job, Albert bucked heads with the committee barons and lost, but his willingness to take them on and the strong support he got from younger Democrats indicates the struggle is just beginning.

The issue which Albert lost last Friday is one both his predecessors, Sam Rayburn and John W. McCormack, grappled with: the power of the Rules Committee to block legislation. Albert tried to put a 31-day limit on the time the Rules Committee could keep a bill from going to the floor. After that he could call it up at his own discretion.

He lost, 233 to 152. Among the 90 Democrats who opposed Albert were 10 committee chairmen. Most of the others were from the South.

It might be expected that committee chairmen would share Albert's view against allowing the Rules Committee to bottle up bills from their panels. In fact they do, but they would rather live with the situation than see Albert's powers increased.

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., chairman of the Rules Committee, who led the fight against the proposed new rule, conjured up the ghost of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, whose tyrannical control of the House led to a revolt against his power in 1910.

"The power that would be placed in the speaker by this rule is a power that I do not think the speaker should have, nor one that he should seek," said Colmer. "If we adopt it we would be turning the clock back to the days of 'Czar' Cannon."

One speaker who did not want such power was McCormack. He had it given to him in the 89th Congress when the 1964 Lyndon Johnson landslide weakened the conservative coalition. The plan was later dropped when McCormack indicated he did not want the responsibility it entailed.

In 1949 a 21-day limit was set for Rules Committee inaction on a bill, but that rule gave the power to then call the measure up to the chairman of the com-

Watson Chapel Petitions to Ban Busing

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Patrons of the Watson Chapel School District are circulating a petition demanding that their children not be bused to receive racial balance.

The petition was circulated during a meeting Friday night of about 700 patrons of the district, who expressed their support of the school board.

The board has ignored federal orders to implement a Department of Health, Education and Welfare desegregation plan, which Federal Judge Oren Harris ordered into effect Jan. 18.

The board appealed Harris' order to the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals for a stay, but was denied.

Harris has set Feb. 5 for a hearing to decide if the school board should be held in contempt for refusing to comply with Harris' orders.

Olen Bearden, a member of the school board, said Sunday that a report that a march on the Federal Building in Pine Bluff Feb. 5 was being planned was erroneous.

Bearden said that it had been mentioned at the meeting, however, that the patrons would march to jail with the members of the school board if they are found in contempt.

mittee that produced the bill, not the speaker. Rayburn fought to retain it but in 1951 it was repealed.

Early Entry Brings Up Protection

By BILL NEIKIRK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's early entry into the presidential race has posed a sticky problem for the government in deciding when a major White House candidate is entitled to Secret Service protection.

By one interpretation, the South Dakota Democrat will have to wait until the spring of 1972 and the start of the presidential primaries before he gets Secret Service bodyguards.

By another version, he could be entitled to protection immediately if a committee set up by Congress acts swiftly in cooperation with the Secretary of the Treasury.

McGovern said through an aide he will await the government's decision on whether he will be offered protection. "We have made no application for it," the aide said.

After the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Congress approved a resolution providing Secret Service bodyguards for all major candidates for the White House.

But the protection isn't automatic—and neither is the timing of it.

The resolution authorizes a special committee of House and Senate leaders to recommend to the Secretary of the Treasury the candidates to be protected.

The Treasury chief makes the decision based on the recommendation and then offers the protection to the candidates, who can accept or reject it.

The committee is composed of the speaker and minority leader of the House and the majority and minority leaders of the Senate, plus one member of Congress selected by the committee.

Because McGovern announced so early and because Congress has barely organized, no one has given much thought whether the new presidential contender should get protection now.

The law doesn't say when. But some officials said the legislative history—debate and discussion—surrounding passage of the resolution suggests the protection was intended only after the primaries get under way.

GETTING CONNECTED—Now that you've caught on to Elton John, thanks to his big single, "Your Song," pick up on his latest LP, "Tumbleweed Connection." Got to be one of the best in a long time with Elton in good voice on all cuts. The best, we think, is "My Father's Gun," which has Dusty Springfield supplying the background vocal. It's six minutes and 10 seconds of pure delight.

GUESS WHAT?—The long-awaited (as usual) Playboy Poll is with us again and it appears that there are some strange things going on. Like, for one, is Joe Cocker really the top male vocalist around? Even Joe doesn't think so, but that's the way the Playboy Poll came out. Can you list the top 25 vocal groups and leave out The Guess Who? Doesn't seem likely but Playboy's readers did. Do you really think the Ventures (who haven't done anything in about 10 years) are more popular than The Guess Who? Once again we doubt it. Youth Beat thinks the Playboy lineup is about as phony as Hugh Hefner's image. We'd like to see who you think are the tops in each department in the music scene. Fill us in and we'll run the results here. If The Guess Who isn't in the top 25 in the vocal groups spot, we'll take the hint and leave the country.

WHAT'S UP?—Not content with knocking Playboy, Youth Beat gives its "Can it Be?" award to Variety, the show biz paper, which listed the golden records of 1970 in a recent issue. Would you believe that the Supremes, Stevie Wonder, the Jackson Five, Smokey Robinson, Marvin Gaye and the Four Tops didn't have one gold record among them in '70? Of course, you wouldn't. Matter of fact, the Jackson Five had four records that sold over a million. However, it turns out that the folks at Motown won't tell the folks at the Record Industry Association of America how many discs their various artists sell, so the Motowners don't get gold records from the RIAA. So, what does a gold record really mean? Just that the company in question has supplied sales info to the RIAA. No big deal, really. So the next time you hear about a goldie, don't take it too seriously. What with two billion dollars a year being the sales figure in the record business a million seller isn't all that tough to come by.

RAILROAD ROOTERS—Ah yes, friends, we never realized how many railroad lovers there are out there until we started going into those Union Posters. We heard from hundreds of you it was our biggest response to an offer of something for nothing in a long time.

HARVEY HARMONY—Congrats to Bob Harvey, lead puffer with the Bronx Kazoos, who recently married Lois Rappaport, noted Greenwich Village historian. Music for the wedding was supplied by Ken (the Ten) Jrsay, another Bronx Kazoo member who is making it big as a single these days.

2 Washington County Men Found Dead

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —Two Washington County men were found dead Saturday in a Jeep wagon that had become stuck in a small creek near Tontitown.

The victims were identified as Douglas Claypool, 31, and Shirley Ramsey, 32, both of Rt. 4 Springdale. Sheriff Bill Long quoted the county coroner as saying death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Long said five men, all employees at Arbor Acres farm near Tontitown, had taken the new Jeep for a ride when it became stuck, with the exhaust pipe submerged below water.

Long said that one of the three men who left, Donald Price, told police that when he returned with a factor to pull the Jeep out, he found the two men dead.

Suggests Ways to Prevent Obscene Calls

By GARY MIHOCES
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The woman, who had complained of a persistent obscene phone caller, was asked whether she could keep him on the line long enough to make a trace possible.

"Sure," she replied. "I talked to him for 45 minutes the other night."

That's the story told by Norman Bach, director of Bell Telephone Co.'s anonymous call bureau in Western Pennsylvania, to illustrate what he considers a major factor in the obscene call problem: The willingness of some people to lend an ear.

Bach's first rule of phone use is simple: "If the caller won't identify himself, hang up."

"In the majority of cases we've had, the person who is making the call is an exhibitionist," Bach explained. "He has to have an audience or his effort is wasted. There is no doubt in my mind that if everyone would hang up it would really cut this thing down."

Thus far, Bach says, the bureau has identified some 5,700 persons responsible for such calls. "But by doing so we believe we have disposed of about 50,000 cases," he said. "In some instances one man or woman is responsible for calls to scores of victims."

An anonymous call conviction in Pennsylvania carries penalties from $500 and one year in jail to $5,000 and five years. Investigations by Bach's bureau have led to 700 convictions.

"Our experience has been, however, that most people don't want to prosecute," he said.

"Very often the caller is a neighbor, a relative or someone with whom they may have had an argument or an unsatisfactory business dealing. Quite often the callers are mentally ill or just working off a childish peeve."

Sometimes Bell investigators break a case with one phone call. Other times the investigations drag on.

Instances of harassing calls include the woman who phoned her landlord and blew a whistle in his ear, the caller who falsely told a woman her husband had been killed in a car crash and the untrue report to a GI's parents that he had been wounded in Vietnam.

Bach's bureau is one of three in Pennsylvania and one of many throughout the nationwide Bell System. Hundreds of thousands of complaints are made each year, but Bach says the battle is being won.

The savvy of the Bell investigators and the latest electronic tracing equipment are part of the answer, Bach says, but public education is an important factor.

Here are his suggestions for self-protection from telephone abusers:

—Hang up on the first annoying call.

—If they persist, call the phone company.

—Answer the phone simply by

Muskie Tells Russian How People Feel

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has disclosed that he told Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin there is "a strong body of opinion in the United States" dedicated to reducing military spending in hopes that this might influence the Communist leader.

The Maine Democrat, leading prospect for his party's presidential nomination in 1972, said statesmen "ought to understand saying "hello," nothing else.

—Don't teach children to answer with "Smith residence."

—If the phone is in a woman's name, don't list it Miss or Mrs., just S. Jones, for example.

—If the caller asks, "what number is this?" don't tell him.

—Teach children never to admit they're alone.

that they are dealing not only with governments which tend to represent one point of view at a time, but that there is usually another body of opinion in the country which may represent another point of view.

"When the Soviet Union is dealing with the United States, they ought to understand that not only do we have our administration's point of view, which is legitimate, and represents the view of an administration elected by the people, but that there is another one, and in dealing with the United States they ought to bear that in mind, and perhaps that would have an effect upon their policies."

Muskie spent 3 hours and 45 minutes in private conversation with Kosygin in Moscow Jan. 15.

He said he knew the Soviet premier was especially concerned about defense spending, its consequences for peace, and the diversion of resources into armaments. "So I told him that we were concerned about the cost of armaments and that in the Congress we were trying to do something about it, that we reduced the President's own budget in this field, that we were trying to divert these resources to more constructive purposes."

Muskie discussed his conversation with Kosygin in a taped CBS television interview with Merv Griffin to be broadcast later this week.

Muskie said during the interview that he was not in the Soviet Union "to solve any problems, because I have no official capacity to do that."

Asked afterwards whether he might be criticized on diplomatic grounds for discussing with Kosygin American viewpoints differing from those of the administration, Muskie replied, "Since I can say it here on the Senate floor, I don't see any damn reason why I can't say it to Kosygin."

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, the only announced candidate for the 1972 Democratic nomination, proposed meanwhile that the United States seek the admission of Communist China to the United Nations as a permanent member of the Security Council.

PERSONAL FINANCE Overseas Jobs Are Plentiful

By CARLTON SMITH

Would you say "yes" if tomorrow morning somebody offered you a job in Casablanca or Calcutta—Rome, Rio, Sydney, Switzerland?

Thousands of American every year find an overseas job is the way to see the world at somebody else's expense. Does the idea grab you? Then don't just sit there—do something about it.

Opportunities for employment abroad have never been so plentiful, and there's an opening somewhere for almost every conceivable job skill, from astrophysicist to zither-tuner. If you know how to go about it, chances are good that you can line something up in, approximately, the corner of the world that most appeals to you.

So how do you go about it? That information is in a paperback just published, "How to Get a Job Overseas," by Curtis Casewell (Arc Books, $1.45). If its 250 pages don't tell you how to get a line on a job abroad, then you're probably unemployable abroad.

And that could be. The overseas job isn't all wine and roses, and not everybody's cup of tea. The author has written what he terms a "brutally frank and scrupulously honest" book, and he makes it clear that there are few free rides for misfits, escapist and junketeers.

American companies with overseas operations, as well as governmental agencies, generally screen much more carefully for these jobs than for domestic employment. The kind of incompetence that will get by in the United States simply can't be tolerated in many overseas operations. And you have to be temperamentally suited to getting along with people whose ways of doing things, or looking at things, may be quite unlike your ways.

But if you're adaptable, and serious about your career, the overseas job can offer satisfying rewards, financial and otherwise. For example, unless you're on a government payroll, employment outside the United States for 510 days or longer means no U.S. income tax on earnings up to $20,000. It's possible in some jobs (cases are cited) to work abroad several years and bank enough to retire.

Competition for good overseas jobs is understandably stiff. The author maintains, however, that "there ARE methods to crack the toughest job market," and the book is devoted to giving you the methods—whether you're a professional, skilled craftsman, nurse, teacher or simply "an adventurous young man or woman who can offer only good health, plus an agreeable personality."

In an appendix, there are 20 pages of fine print, listing the employment agencies that specialize in overseas recruiting, hiring agencies for government jobs, U.S. companies that send American workers abroad, trade organizations, foreign schools and teaching recruiters, and the nonprofit organizations that account for an increasing number of overseas jobs.

With all this how-to-do-it help, if you can't line up a job overseas, you're simply a confirmed stay-at-home

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Roman Catholic leaders say their church now cooperates closely with the National Council of Churches, but whether American Catholicism will become a full-fledged member remains uncertain.

Bishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Washington, D.C., general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, says there are not yet "any substantive indications as to the probable final decision."

But "collaboration is already a fact" both with the World and National councils, which include most major Protestant and Orthodox bodies, he told leaders of the U.S. interdenominational organization Sunday night.

"The Catholic Church has made her commitment to ecumenism clear and solid," he said.

His remarks, read in his absence by Msgr. Bernard Law, executive director of the Catholic interreligious affairs committee, came in a progress report on a study of possible Catholic membership in the council.

It is made up of 33 denominations totaling 42.5 million Christians.

Its general secretary, Dr. R. H. Edwin Espy, said the council already had indicated its eagerness for full-scale Catholic membership.

But the joint Protestant-Catholic study group, which a year ago began examining the question, reported it has not yet reached any conclusions.

The Rev. John Hotckin of Washington, a Catholic participant, told a news conference that findings may be ready by next fall. He said the "working hypothesis" is that the Catholic Church will become a member, and the study seeks to iron out technical problems involved.

Earlier, Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., said "the issue of political repression is inherent" in the conspiracy accusations made against the Revs. Daniel and Philip Berrigan, imprisoned Roman Catholic priests.

He told the 250 members of the council's policy-making general board that the federal indictment naming the brothers in an alleged kidnap-bomb plot, sets the stage for what may be "the trial of the century, the climactic point of all the dissent in America."

Philip Berrigan is among six defendants charged and Daniel is among seven others cited as coconspirators but not defendants.

Anderson urged the church leaders to get behind efforts to permit the Berrigans to give newsmen their version of the facts, since the FBI and Justice Department have publicized their charges.

The two priests are serving prison terms for destroying draft records in a protest against the Vietnam war.

Anderson said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in detailing the new charges prior to the indictment, "slandered men without presenting evidence."

The Rev. Dr. David R. Hunter, the council's deputy general secretary, said persuasive claims have been made that the case represents a government effort to silence people opposing the war.

Warns Bumpers He Had Better Communicate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr. of Hot Springs, speaker of the Arkansas House, said Sunday that Gov. Dale Bumpers had better "communicate" with the General Assembly than did former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Smith, appearing on KTVH's "Face the State," said the new governor was stressing personal contact with members of the legislature. He said this was one of the reasons Bumpers has had success in getting his programs through the legislature during the first two weeks of the session.

Smith warned, however, that Rockefeller was also treated well by the House during his first term of office.

The legislator also said the climate now in the House was better for a tax increase than had been in the past several years.

al-state revenue sharing program.

To the straight-out opposition to one or both of the proposals Democratic Senate Leader Mike Mansfield added another ingredient Sunday—the changes are so broad he doubted they can be handled in just one session of Congress.

Republicans obviously take issue with such talk. Sen. Robert Dole, the new GOP national chairman, said Sunday Republicans will have a ready-made campaign issue in 1972 if the President's plans aren't enacted whatever the reason.

"The people want it," the Kansas senator said.

The President, however, will kick off as much momentum in the Congress as he can before making anticipated Democratic resistance a political issue. That, evidently, was the motive behind Nixon's meeting today with the Leaders from Capitol Hill.

In fact, Clark McGregor, Nixon's new congressional liaison man, told reporters Sunday House and Senate leaders at every level from both parties will spend some time at the White House discussing the legislative program.

Before the week's end, McGregor said, ranking majority and minority members from "each and every committee" will be invited for briefings and discussions.

But the President appears to be covering all openings and White House sources said Nixon is prepared to take his case to the people in a personal campaign.

That means, they said, Nixon will meet with public officials in some areas and make direct public appeals in others. Cabinet officers, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, will be called on to bolster the campaign beginning this week.

Nixon's policies were getting immediate boosts as well as criticism.

California Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, among the first to meet with Nixon the day after Nixon set forth his sweeping reform proposals, termed revenue sharing "at the heart of Republican philosophy."

Revenue sharing, giving state and local governments direct and generally unrestricted blocks of federal money, had aroused the strongest immediate congressional resistance.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., and Mansfield, said Sunday they feared the federal government would become a mere tax collector for local government.

Mansfield said he doubted Congress would be willing to surrender the power accompanying federal purse strings or hand out money without some clear idea how it would be spent.

A major portion of the revenue sharing proposal—$6 billion would be unrestricted in that fashion.

Both top Democratic leaders warned of a monumental lobbying effort by interests which might feel threatened by a pared-down federal bureaucracy.

The plan to cut down the number of Cabinet posts and re-group many agencies under four main divisions would open a lobbying effort "the like of which Congress and the nation has not seen, each trying to protect its own respective preserve," Mansfield said.

Half of Oil Dumped Is Recovered

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nearly half the oil dumped into the San Francisco Bay a week ago has been recovered. But on the East Coast, officials are seeking a way to remove nine million gallons of oil from a tanker that ran aground at the harbor in New Haven, Conn.

Autorities said there was no evidence of damage to waterfowl or marine life in the New Haven spill. In California, there was a sharp dropoff of damaged birds reported. About 2,500 oil-soaked birds were being treated in cleansing stations by volunteers.

Standard Oil of California reported that round-the-clock operations involving 700 workmen and thousands of volunteers have recovered 399,000 gallons of the estimated 840,000 gallons of ship fuel oil spilled.

The Coast Guard prepared today to open a hearing into the spill, which has left most of the oil churning around water outside the Golden Gate Bridge.

Standard had 19 skimmers operating Sunday, 16 inside the bay and three outside picking up oil streaks as far as 12 miles at sea and north 35 miles to Drake's Beach and 25 miles south to Half Moon Bay.

At New Haven, officials waited to see which way a big oil slick, caused when a Humble Oil Co. tanker ran aground Saturday, was going to move.

Nine of the ship's oil compartments on the port side were ruptured and about 386,000 gallons of home heating oil spilled into the channel. Much of the oil moved into Long Island Sound.

Connecticut Water Resources Commission official Russell Dibble said that since the accident the pressure inside the ruptured compartments had equalized with the pressure outside and that no more oil would be forced out as long as the situation remained stable.

He said none of the remaining oil in the tanker, the Esso Gettysburg, had been unloaded because of the danger of upsetting the pressure balance.

None of the oil had washed up on New Haven beaches despite strong onshore winds Sunday.

Two conservation groups, the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association, sought to broaden the hearing on the Golden Gate spill to subpoena witnesses and evidence beyond the crews of the two tankers.

The groups told the Coast Guard last week that any routine inquiry by the three-man board investigating the spill "will overlook its real causes, namely corporate management and government policies, or lack of policies, which allows dangerous cargoes to move under adverse conditions."

Tate Jury in Eighth Day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Today is the jury's eighth full day of deliberation in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

When they stopped for the day Saturday, the jurors had logged 41 hours, 21 minutes since receiving the case. They took Sunday off.

A source says some jurors have been studying notes on the seven-month-old trial of Charles Manson and three others until as late as 3 a.m. to speed a verdict.

Phosphates in Soap Linked to Pollution

By MARK BROWN
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission proposed today that soap manufacturers publicly admit phosphates contribute to water pollution and tell consumers exactly how much of the chemical is in each recommended amount of their products.

The FTC said the rule would allow the public to compare for the first time the phosphate contents of detergents.

Under a proposed regulation made public today, all detergent advertising and each package of the soap would have to clearly and conspicuously state:

"Warning: Each recommended use level of this product contains () grams of phosphorus, which contributes to water pollution. Do not use in excess. In soft water areas, use of phosphates is not necessary."

The proposed rule, which cannot become final until approved by the five-member commission following a public hearing, also would require a list on detergent packages of all ingredients by their common names.

That provision would include enzyme additives, which have been criticized for possible harmful effects on humans, said Wayne Cooper, the FTC lawyer who wrote the proposed rule.

Phosphates are put in detergents to soften water so that other ingredients can do an effective job of cleaning. The detergent industry, while admitting privately that phosphates do contribute to water pollution, maintains they are the safest water softening ingredient available.

The Soap and Detergent Association, whose members include most detergent makers, took issue with the FTC proposal.

"Any need for phosphate information for the consumer has already been met by the industry, which announced on Nov. 9, 1970, that household laundry and dishwasher detergents would be labeled nationally as to the per cent of phosphorus in the formula, and also its equivalent in grams per recommended use level."

But Cooper said the decision to issue the proposed rule came after review by the FTC of the voluntary disclosure plan proposed by the association. He said the disclosures by at least some of the association's members appeared "clearly deceptive and totally inadequate."

He acknowledged the industry probably would fight the proposal possible on the basis of the cost of changing packages.
